

For with You is the fountain of life; in Your light we see light.

Psalm 36:9

the LifeWord —

with Michael Green

June 12, 2009

Dear Friend:

HEINOUS HYENAS

On Wednesday afternoon, a deranged old coot walked into the National Holocaust Museum and opened fire. Heroic security guards made sure that he was not able to get beyond the front entrance, thus avoiding further havoc for unsuspecting tourists and students. Within moments, media reports began to paint the portrait of a man filled with rage and hate. He was a product of reprehensible hate groups; all sane, right thinking Americans should be offended. By the time this letter lands, you will have already heard the story but you will also have seen a broad brush response to hopefully make us believe that this guy, off his meds, is the representative of a broad group of Americans. Not so and millions are truly ashamed of such despicable actions.

A few days before, another crazy person in Kansas killed a late term abortion doctor. It was another appalling act that must be strongly condemned. In both cases, quick and severe rebukes came from our governmental leadership.

In Dr. Tiller's case, governmental insinuation and focused media implication deftly connected this crazy fringe action to millions of Americans who have voiced their concerns and lifted impassioned prayers for those who have no voice, the unborn.

While talking about senseless murder, according to less publicized reports, during his "career", Dr. Tiller's hand was responsible for the death of nearly 60,000 babies. Either way, there should be outrage. But not in 2009 America.

In fact, the only acceptable and sanctioned outrage is targeted against people of faith. You can now throw in the Jews. Aging, past their peak, comedians can make rape jokes about 14 year old girls, as long they are the children of a political leader they deem as offensive to their own unmarried, child rearing senses. That would never even be considered with Chelsea, Caroline, the Bush twins or the precious little girls who now live in the White House. Even the physical appearance of the objects of their contempt can be referred to as "slutty" to get a laugh, try that with Mrs. Sotomayer, Pelosi, Clinton or Obama and see what happens. Then you can expect a monstrous juggernaut of rebuke, castigation and condemnation until total destruction is realized.

Consciences now are seared and the mean spirited line is now drawn in chalk. From the towers of power, the signals are clear; it has been made acceptable to dump ridicule on all that disagree. So much for tolerance.

A few days after Dr. Tiller's office closed, two Army recruiters in Arkansas were murdered in cavalier fashion by another angry nut case. The killer was a Muslim Extremist. The media didn't use the word extremist, I did. In fact, the predominant story told was about his apparent justified rage because those American war mongers were so wicked and needed to be destroyed. I guess I didn't fully recognize the truth; he had a right to be angry. It was our fault. The episode was pretty much buried as government and media did their best to kill something else, the truth.

In fact, the White House's tepid response was clinical and predictable. Compared to the Dr. Tiller response, the difference in the verbiage is impossible to ignore.

Just hours after Dr. Tiller's death, in a mass press release to ALL media outlets, the White House said, "I am shocked and outraged by the murder of Dr. George Tiller..." The end of the statement referred to such actions as, "heinous acts of violence". Can I get 60,000 amen's?

Regarding the murder of one soldier and the wounding of another, after two long quiet days, the finally released word was, "I am deeply saddened by this senseless act of violence against two brave young soldiers..."

By the way, this press release, about our two young servicemen killed and wounded on American soil, was only sent to a local Associated Press Office in Arkansas, not to national media. It was treated as a local incident like a stolen car or purse snatching.

Let me see if I have this right, a young American Soldier, who volunteered to serve his country, is killed in cold blood by a wild-eyed terrorist whose idiot indoctrination espouses death to America and those awful Jews. This act is called "senseless". Duh.

Conversely, an abortion doctor, while reportedly charging 5000 dollars per termination, is murdered by a crazy, lone gunman who is actually violating the very God Law he is purportedly defending. Harsher words, "shocked, outraged and heinous (shockingly evil)" were bandied about.

Although there are more Southern Baptists in Texas than all of the Muslims combined in America, it seems the DC Hierarchy is more concerned with the well being and good thoughts of our Muslim friends even at the cost of throwing the beliefs of millions of Americans along with their outdated Constitution under the bus. In fact, announced this week, all captured terrorists, or should I say, enemy combatants, now get Miranda Rights read to them. Our citizens should have "the right to remain silent", others must earn it.

With media complicity, as much as possible, each misstep from the stupidest amongst us will be magnified and hopefully identified as the "norm" for the whole lot of ignorant, small minded Christians and Jews in their way. This thing is going global.

Just this week, in a conversation with Israeli Prime Minister, Benjamin Netanyahu, one high up American Official told him, "We are going to change the world. Please don't interfere."

Junk like this should be sobering and scary. This is not a drill. The killers are loose and they are not the one or two crazies who go off now and then.

The weakening is escalating and it is time to blow the doors off of our prayer closets. To paraphrase a famous quote, "Now is the time for all Believers to come to the aid of our country!"

Keep praying, keep alert, keep involved, avoid the kooks on both sides and ask God to shed His Grace once more and give us leaders in every part of our government who will call on His Name and who will be more comfortable quoting John 3:16 than the Quran.

Michael

The LifeGate